

Federal Signal's Serial Interface Module has been re-designed.

For many years, Federal Signal has shipped lightbars and ILS Systems with a Serial Interface Module. This module enables the lightbar or ILS System to connect to a traditionally-wired siren or controller.

Federal Signal is pleased to announce that our Serial Interface Module has been re-designed. The module now incorporates a black, plastic housing. The new housing replaces the stamped metal housing used in the previous design. Additionally, with the old design module, there were certain circumstances that required the installer to open up the module. With the new design, all programming features are externally-accessible, and there is no need to ever open the module or access it internally.

Timing

Federal Signal is implementing the new-design Serial Interface Module as a "running change" in our production schedule. The new design module will begin shipping with customer orders sometime during mid-December 2014, approximately the week of 12/15/2014
